A ghost hunting trip – great, it’s Halloween – how appropriate, in the underground canal tunnels under Dudley Castle – GULP!

The intrepid Stourbridge Circlers set off on a canal barge to hunt down the spirits of the men, women & children killed in the underground mines of the old Earl of Dudley. These tunnels literally stretch for miles and open out into massive caverns where the lime stone has been taken away.

Although there were no actual sightings, my camera stopped working which apparently is a usual occurrence in these tunnels and there were some odd people on the boat!

Trip over the Stourbridge girls decamped to the pub to calm their nerves!
